ANOTHER "CHRISTIAN" COUNTRY

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath

Amazing to the non-Christian is the multitude of sins which have recently been designated as laudable Christian traits. Last week we drew the attention of our readers to a certain bigotry and intolerance within our own midst that were unfortunately sailing under the false color of Christian virtue. Again, for the past decade, holy Capitalism has been called upon to save the sacred individualism and 'dog eat dog' competition of our so-called "Christian" civilization from the foul clutch of the anti-Christ now masquerading under the seductive guise of the godless and pagan Soviet, dedicated to such a heathen gospel as would grant to the toilers of the earth the full fruitage of their arduous toil. And now once again, as during those four blood-drenched years of planetary cannibalism, 1914-1918, the mass murdering of one people by another is likewise proudly proclaimed a part of "Christian" dogma. For, writes Mr. Justice Sutherland of the United States Supreme Court, in rendering the majority opinion recently handed down by the highest tribunal of that country denying citizenship to our fellow Canadian, Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh: "We are a Christian people, according to one another the equal rights of religious freedom and acknowledging with reverence the duty of obedience to the will of God.

"But also we are a nation with a duty to survive, a nation whose constitution contemplates war as well as peace, whose government must go forward upon the assumption, and safely can proceed upon no other, that unqualified allegiance to the nation and submission and obedience to the laws of the land, as well as those made for war as those made for peace are not inconsistent with the will of God." (italics ours).

What monstrous logic, what pathetic medievalism! We, of this sophisticated era, laugh to scorn the stupid notion held so sacrosanct by our benighted forbears which proclaimed the "divine right of kings" and we "outsiders" are constantly overhearing the whisperings of our Protestant friends who sometimes too contemptuously we think, repudiate the omniscience of the Pope; yet here is a Protestant judge in a non-Catholic country (so non-Catholic that it would fear nothing worse than to elect as president a follower of Rome) in an age of democracy and enlightenment giving voice to the selfsame irrational and long antequated doctrine: ". . . . unqualified allegiance to the nation . . . obedience to the laws of the land . . . those made for war . . . not inconsistent with the will of God."

And so, because the majority of the Supreme Court of the United States still superstitiously and blindly believes that its government (and of course only its own) can do nothing "inconsistent with the will of God," none who subscribes to any principle that might conflict with "the laws of the land" can become a citizen of that "Christian" state. Thus, because Professor MacIntosh refused to answer with a positive and unequivocal affirmation the question: "If necessary are you willing to take up arms in the defense of this country?", Justice Sutherland and four of his colleagues upon the premiss that the United States is "a Christian people — acknowledging with reverence the duty of obedience to the will of God," felt that this "unpatriotic" and "un-Christian" Yale professor was unworthy of citizenship among such a "Christian people."

Particularly shocking is this in the light of Dr. MacIntosh's particular point of view. He is not a dogmatic or absolute pacifist. He actually served in the World War and maintains still that he might conceivably fight again. "But," says Professor MacIntosh (and we warn our more timid and one hundred percent readers—if such there be among those who still peruse these columns — to proceed no further lest they be contaminated by the 'dynamitic,' 'anarchic' and 'bolshevist' words that follow): "I am willing to do what I judge to be in the best interests of my country, only insofar as I can believe that this is not going to be against the best interests of humanity in the long run. I do not undertake to support 'my country, right or wrong' in any dispute which may arise, and I am not willing to promise beforehand, and without knowing the cause of which my country may go to war, either that I will or that I will not 'take up arms in the defense of this country' however 'necessary' the war may seem to the government of the day. It is only in a sense consistent with these statements that I am willing to promise to 'support and defend' the government of the United States 'against all enemies, foreign and domestic.'"

Could any sane, intelligent or decently minded person answer otherwise? Could any Christian, presumed by the name he bears to be an exemplar of the Prince of Peace who bade his followers to love even their enemies and "to resist not evil;" could any Christian — other than a downright hypocrite — dare to say less? Yet, the majority opinion of the United States Supreme Court believes such a viewpoint inconsistent, alien, and repugnant to a "Christian people . . . acknowledging with reverence the duty of obedience to the will of God." Another Christian country indeed . . . a Christian country to become citizens of which only killers need apply.

There was but one compensating feature in this most deplorable decision. The minority opinion, written by Chief Justice Hughes himself, took sharp issue with the majority; and in veritably inspired sentences asserted: "Much has been said of the paramount duty to the state, a duty to be recognized, it is urged, even though it conflicts with convictions of duty to God. Undoubtedly, that duty to the state exists within the domain of power . . . but in the forum of conscience, duty to a moral power higher than the state has always been maintained . . . The essence of religion is belief in a relation to God involving duties superior to those arising from any human relation. One cannot speak of religious liberty with proper appreciation of its essential and historic significance, without assuming the existence of a belief in a supreme allegiance to the will of God." (italics ours).

With such forthright and irrefutable words written by the Chief Justice and concurred in by three of his most esteemed colleagues: Justices Brandeis, Holmes and Stone, there is yet hope. Perhaps some day, somehow, the United States may really understand that "obedience to the will of God" implies something far more sacred and more noble than the putrid jingoism of Justice Sutherland, and may thus become at last the Christian people it now vainglorously and falsely boasts itself to be. But then, mayhap it may even dispense with that rather superfluous qualifying adjective and become merely a people — civilized, intelligent, humane.

Every Friday

Attention of the Jew everywhere in this country is drawn to Michigan as a result of the passage of the alien registration law and the fight against it which is being planned by all foreign born groups in preparation for July, the date set for a hearing on the law by three Federal judges. At present, enforcement of the law is restrained by a temporary order and on July 1, a petition will be heard for a permanent injunction to stop the enforcement of the alien registration law which its opponents claim is unconstitutional. If this law goes into effect its influence will be far-reaching since other states will follow the example set by Michigan.

A glance backward to the days when it was safe for the political speaker to exalt the immigrant for his part in building the United States to the day when it is safe to denounce the immigrant for the ills of the country, brings into clear view what effective use has been made by propagandists of the relation between immigration and crime. One of the strongest arguments advanced for alien registration is that it would make easier the deportation of deportable aliens. All of the arguments for alien registration have been strengthened by the economic depression (which openly revealed labor forces in favor of it) at the same time that the unthinking had come to regard crime as a word always to be linked to one other word, immigrant. How fallacious is this popular attitude toward the immigrant was pointed out recently in the following editorial in the New York Times:

"The Commissioner General of Immigration, in the course of his plea for cutting down the present alien quotas, was unassailable when he declared that if we had had selective immigration fifty years ago, 'there would have been no underworld problem of the magnitude or character that our peace officers have on their hands now.' In the same manner that a young man can appreciably reduce the responsibility of matrimony by postponing marriage till the age of sixty, or a small boy could imaginably avoid the discomfort of shaving by flatly refusing to grow up, we would now have fewer racketeers and gunmen if the population of the United States were smaller by the 25,000,000 aliens who have entered the country since the year 1880, and their offspring. With only three-fourths of our actual population there would have been fewer criminals than we have today. But if Commissioner General Hull's statement is technically correct, it is nevertheless in danger of being distorted to suggest that our crime problem today has its principal roots in our former policy of unrestricted immigration. The implication is strong that there would have been no underworld in the cities of the United States if certain alien types and strains had been denied admission to the country.

"This is an utterly indefensible position. The immigrant arrivals of the last half-century and their descendants have unquestionably made their contribution to our crime annals. It is not unlikely that the newcomers have given a bit more than their share. The stresses and strains which account for a disproportionately large alien population in the insane asylums will be found operating to some extent in the field of social adjustment. The public has been familiarized with the handicaps under which immigrant parents labor in bringing up their children in a new environment. The disruption of family discipline and family ties by differences in language and interests between the first and second generations is a factor in our crime statistics. But it is a matter of degree. It is not only immigrant parents who fail to understand their children or to be understood by them, though the alien father finds himself harder beset. Beyond this we cannot go. That the crime problem is primarily an immigrant problem is plainly disproved by our homicide statistics. It is true that the murder-rate in our cities has increased threefold since the year 1900, and is now nearly eight times the rate for Canadian cities, twenty times the rate for Great Britain. But the cities with the highest murder-rate are not those with the highest percentage of immigrant stock. The average homicide-rate for Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis is nearly ten times the average for Boston, New York or Philadelphia. Even Chicago stands far behind the big towns of the South or Southwest where European immigration has been a factor of small importance."

As far as the Jewish group and its contribution toward crime annals is concerned, Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney, said a couple of years ago: "The surveys I have made of local and state prisons in New York and the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta shows that the Jews have provided proportionately fewer criminals to our prisons than any other race. The reason for this, in my opinion, is that the Jewish people are stabilized by their traditions as no other people are stabilized."

What Mr. Tuttle says is undoubtedly true. But it is easier to blame the immigrant for crime than for some to admit that the breeders of crime are still poverty, disease, bad housing, illiteracy, unemployment and the like. That would call for a cure far more involved that the passage of an alien registration bill. f.f.c.

FIRESTONE BUSINESS SHOWS BIG INCREASE

The most encouraging business news heard for some time has just come from the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company who reports that their profits for the first six months of its current fiscal year are double the earnings of the entire year of 1930.

Following a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, Harvey S. Firestone, president, made the following announcement: "Net profit of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company and all subsidiaries for the first six months ending April 30, 1931, after deducting depreciation, interest, taxes, etc., was $2,998,554.20. This compares with a profit of $1,541,024 for the fiscal year ending October 31 1930."

Commenting on the foregoing announcement, K. W. DeKew, president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Canada Ltd. stated, "I am happy to confirm this announcement as far as the Canadian organization is concerned. Our business has shown a substantial increase in every province of the Dominion and we believe that the next six months will show a corresponding gain."

To what extent the Firestone company's record is a sign of the times rather than an individual achievement remains to be seen when the six months' statements of other industrials become available. Meanwhile there is no reason to suppose that Firestone alone has felt the improvement and the country is warranted in assuming that the report of this one manufacturer is indicative of other encouraging omens to come.

The showing of the Firestone Company is especially significant in that it represents, not what any one locality or group thinks about business, but rather the feeling of every nook and cranny of the country — big cities and small cities, villages and farms. The great tire companies sell their product everywhere and to every economic class. The wealthy owner of expensive cars, the owners of ancient flivvers, the owners of great bus and truck fleets — all unite to make the tire companies' business good or bad as these buyers themselves feel prosperous or the reverse.

The tire companies have felt the depression more keenly than the manufacturers of other necessities and now the first actual proof that business has quit the bottom and started the upward climb comes from one of these big tire companies.

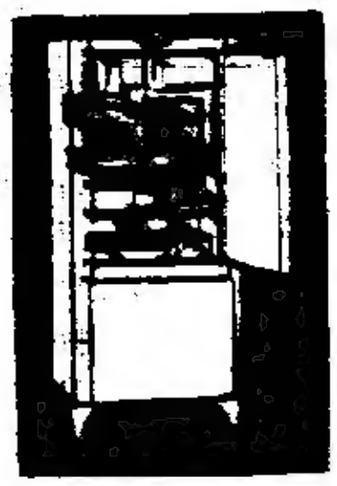
Foods SLIDE in and out of FRIGIDAIRE!



Push a heavy bowl of soup-stock into a Frigidaire — it doesn't stutter its way to the back of the shelf — stopping over an it goes. It doesn't ask to be lifted into place either.

And when you want it again it doesn't have to be coaxed to come out — it seems absolutely eager to obey your guiding hand . . . This is because Frigidaire Food Shelves are made of smooth steel rails all running one way — from front to back. There are no crinkly crossbars for dishes to stumble over and stick against.

Easy-riding, one-way rails on all food shelves are one of the very real advantages of Frigidaire Advanced Refrigeration. There are many others. See them at your Frigidaire dealer's.

Among Toronto Jewish Women

Mrs. Joshua Smith, 20 McKenzie Crescent, says: "One of the most capable women of my acquaintance is Mrs. J. J. Allen of 20 Roxboro Drive. She was vice-president of the Council of Jewish Women and ran the original campaign for the Helping Hand Fund of Hadassah. She has been associated with the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies since it was first organized and has worked on every drive and campaign it has had. She was also a member of the Jewish Children's Home, and has sponsored camps for boys and girls, in fact there is hardly an organization or movement in the city that has not at some time or other received her support. Mrs. Allen is one of the most obliging women I know. I would say that her hobby is doing something good for some one all the time. She is very fond of books and music."
